Steel Slumps But U.S. Income Higher

Economics is indeed a fascinating study. It offers many surprises that are not according to the books. Take steel.

The industry traditionally has been a key factor in the national economy. In the past, when steel production slumped the effects were felt in most other sectors of the economy.

Last month steel output dropped to 61 per cent of capacity. Yet national personal income continued to climb to a record rate. The Commerce Department reported that the annual rate in June was $405.8 billion dollars, a rise of $1.1 billion over May.

A $400 million monthly decline in manufacturing payrolls to an annual rate of $89.1 billion was attributed to reduced employment at steel mills and prolonged strikes at some aircraft plants. The net increase in June personal income came chiefly from gains in income of farmers, government workers and employes in the consumer service industries.

Income of farm owners was reported to have risen in June for the third consecutive month to an annual rate of $12.5 billion, the highest in 15 months. The farmers' increase was ascribed to greater marketing of grain.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky The Republican Dilemma

The Democratic Convention contained three elements which must find points of agreement or go down to defeat. The three elements are:

- 1. The Big City Demoerats;
- 2. The South:
- 3. The A.D.A.

The elements are divergent but their objective is to elect a Democratic President and a Democratic Congress and then they will try to settle their differences. Franklin D. Roosevelt generally managed to keep these divergent elements together in his person. He functioned somewhat like the British Crown - that is, emotional loyalty to Roosevelt became a substitute for rational response.

The Republicans do not have quite a similar situation, but they too have a division of forces which cannot be ignored. Their division is not as clear-cut as the Democratic one; definition is more difficult. But let us put it this way:

1. There is a remnant of Taft Republicanism which is conservative but not reactionary;

2. There are the newer Republicans who came in with Wendell Willkie and who desire a liberal Republican Party that co-exists with a liberal Democratic

3. There are the Eisenhower Republicans, men and women who are unaccustomed to politics but who admire and even adore President Eisenhower.

Thus there is no genuine Republican image. It was possible in the days of Mark Hanna to describe a Republican with a degree of accuracy. That is altogether impossible today. It is for this reason that a degree of paralysis has been noted in the Eisenhower Administration which, having no majority in Congress, sought to function by executive action or by agreement with Lyndon Johnson. It was a tough position for a party and it would be a great advantage to the American people if the next President and the next Congress were of the same party.

President Eisenhower was not a dyed-in-the-wool Republican. He had been in the army most of his adult life and a professional army officer has no party.

When Eisenhower decided to become a Republican. he had to learn the peculiarities of our political system which, of course, is nothing like the politics in the army. In civilian life, it is necessary for a man to be friendly with his opponent, as undoubtedly Kennedy and Nixon are and will be after the campaign. In the army, a senior officer who dislikes or distrusts a junior can have him moved out of his way. It was probably for that reason that President Eisenhower mistreated

It will not be possible for Vice President Nixon to accept full and unquestioning responsibility for the Eisenhower Administration. Nevertheless, the Democrats will make that their principal issue. For instance, they have already raised some questions as to the competence of the Eisenhower Administration with regard to the economy of the nation. They have indicated that they intend to make such questions major in the

As John Kennedy discusses the farm problem, he sounds like a Taft Republican who knows how to use an adding machine; can Richard Nixon deal with this problem less conservatively? He could ask Kennedy as to who started this enormous stockpile of rotting farm products. The answer, of course, would have to be that this all goes way back to the days of Henry Wallace, but that answer is no good. It will not do in 1960 when Franklin D. Roosevelt is a mythological figure and when Henry Wallace and Rexford Guy Tugwell are forgotten.

It will not do because a new generation exists who know Herbert Hoover as a kindly, elderly gentleman who writes books, and the Depression as something which happened before World War II. The emotional responses of each generation are its own and when one realizes how remote the 1930's are, the Republican Party will have to face the realities of today.

Peace and prosperity do not mean the same to a voungster in his 30's as they do to an oldster in his 60's. I can recall when this nation went to war gaily, singing "Over There" and calling sauerkraut, Liberty Cabbage. That was a gay, optimistic, sure America that had no doubts about anything. That America does not exist among the younger generations of our people. And it is to many younger generations that Richard Nixon will have to appeal.

If one studies carefully the Democratic platform and John Kennedy's acceptance speech, they are not closely related. The platform was designed to please everybody; the acceptance speech asserted authority.

Democrats Dig Up Ammunition To Use Against Richard Nixon

CHICAGO-On the eve of the Democratic Convention this column published some of the political ammunition which Republicans had been gathering against the front-running candidate, Sen. Jack Kennedy. On the eve of the Republican Convention it's also important to report the ammunition which the Democrats have gathered against the front-running GOP candidate, Richard M. Nixon. Here is some of it:

INTERVENTION IN CUBA -With Cuba now in the headlines, the Democrats have unearthed the interesting fact that Nixon wrote a letter to the American Ambassador in Havana asking his intervention on behalf of Dana Smith of Los Angeles, who had incurred a $4,200 gambling debt at the Sans Souci Casino and welched on it. Smith made out a check to Norman Rothman, owner of the Sans Souci, for $4,200, then stopped payment on the check. Rothman sued to collect. Nixon wrote a letter to Ambassador Willard Beaulac asking his help regarding something no American Ambassador should concern himself with-a gambling

Significantly, Dana Smith is the man who collected the $18,000 personal expense fund for Nixon. Democrats will point out that Nixon has always stated he never did any favors for those who contributed to his fund. They will also argue that if the American Ambassador had concentrated on watching Cuban political trends instead of being asked to bother

CIVIL RIGHTS - One of the most important issues in the coming campaign will be civil rights. Nixon has posed as the great champion of the Negro and of civil rights.

Yet Democrats have dug up the fact that while Nixon was in the Senate, he was one of only three Senators who voted to keep the Civil Rights Bill bottled up in the Labor Committee. He did not even want the bill to come out to the full Senate for debate.

VOTES ON ANTI-COMMUNISM -Nixon's votes on combatting the power of Soviet Communism are interesting. The record shows that as a Congressman, he voted against the first aid-to-Korea bill aimed to strengthen that country shortly before the Communist attack; also voted to cut the 1949 military aid to Western Europe in half at a very crucial time in the European battle against Communism.

Nixon's votes were the same as those of pro-Communist Congressman Marcantonio. Yet in Nixon's 1950 Senate campaign against Mrs. Helen Gahagan Douglas he circulated a "pink sheet" branding Mrs. Douglas as a pink by linking her with Marcantonio.

Vitale was indicted Nov. 10, 1926, along with 14 others, in the biggest bootleg conspiracy on the West Coast. They were charged with doing $5,000,000,000 worth of illicit liquor business the year before, using counterfeit stamps, manufacturing "imported" liquor in the United States, and acquiring, through the Latchford Glass Works whose president was also indicted, bottles with "Gordons," Johnny Walker," "London Dry Gin," etc. blown into them. # Surprising Selection

By Leslie Gould

The SEC has a new commissioner, promoted from the staff, under a recess appointment. He is Byron D. Woodside, whose service dates back to the inauguration of federal regulation securities.

His selection as a commissioner is surprising on several grounds. A head of the SEC's Division of Corporate Finance, handling proxy material and fights, securities registrations and corporate financial reports, Mr. Woodside

1.-Attempted censorship of the press. 2.-Attempted censorship of corporate reports and other stockholder communications. 3.-Helped corporate raiders, such as Louis Wolfson in the Montgomery Ward case and Leopold D. Silberstein in the Penn-Texas operation.

4.-Failed to stop Frederick Richmond in his attempted "take over" of the small Follansbee Steel company, which would have cost a thousand jobs.

5.-Failed to force full disclosures in stock control purchases, so that a Serge Rubinstein or other unsavory characters could "take over" a company. 6.—Allowed to pour through the SEC hopper a flood of cheap, highly speculative and many phoney uranium and other mining stock ventures, in which the public lost millions.

7.—Permitted a "sit down strike by his department when Congress failed to vote additional funds for enlarging the SEC staff. This "strike" has resulted in 60 day delays in clearing registrations of top flight companies.

8.—Interferring with underwritings, where a company official has made a speech or answered questions as to the company's business up to six months before a planned financing. The list is long as to specific instances where the SEC's Corporate Finance Division has failed to protect the investing public and has hampered legitimate business, while allowing the fly by-night brokers and dealers to peddle worthless and near worthless securities.

The general policy of this division under Mr. Woodside and his designated successor is to favor the outside interests seeking to move into a company. This is on the ground that management, being in the saddle has an advantage, so if there is any leaning backwards, it should be toward the anti-management side.

If Mr. Woodside had his way factions in a proxy fight could not talk with the press or radio or face a tv panel without first clearing all answers with his staff. This censorship would also apply to advertising.

If Mr. Woodside were to have his way, the SEC's administrative job would be impossible. There would be no impromptu off-the-cuff remarks. Where a corporate official has talked before a group such as the N. Y. Security Analysts, the SEC has cracked down on the silly grounds that this could be a prior solicitation when new financing is contemplated. Yet, immediately after registlation but before its effectiveness, the official can talk his head off.

Since this is a recess appointment, it will have to be confirmed by the Senate to become permanent. It is an appointment that should be scrutinized.

Steel Slumps But U.S. Income Higher

Economics is indeed a fascinating study. It offers many surprises that are not according to the books. Take steel.

The industry traditionally has been a key factor in the national economy. In the past, when steel production slumped the effects were felt in most other sectors of the economy.

Last month steel output dropped to 61 per cent of capacity. Yet national personal income continued to climb to a record rate. The Commerce Department reported that the annual rate in June was $405.8 billion dollars, a rise of $1.1 billion over May.

A $400 million monthly decline in manufacturing payrolls to an annual rate of $89.1 billion was attributed to reduced employment at steel mills and prolonged strikes at some aircraft plants. The net increase in June personal income came chiefly from gains in income of farmers, government workers and employes in the consumer service industries.

Income of farm owners was reported to have risen in June for the third consecutive month to an annual rate of $12.5 billion, the highest in 15 months. The farmers' increase was ascribed to greater marketing of grain.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky The Republican Dilemma

The Democratic Convention contained three elements which must find points of agreement or go down

- to defeat. The three elements are: 1. The Big City Democrats;
  - 2. The South;
  - 3. The A.D.A.

The elements are divergent but their objective is to elect a Democratic President and a Democratic Congress and then they will try to settle their differences. Franklin D. Roosevelt generally managed to keep these divergent elements together in his person. He functioned somewhat like the British Crown - that is, emotional loyalty to Roosevelt became a substitute for rational response.

The Republicans do not have quite a similar situation, but they too have a division of forces which cannot be ignored. Their division is not as clear-cut as the Democratic one; definition is more difficult. But let us put it this way:

1. There is a remnant of Taft Republicanism which is conservative but not reactionary;

2. There are the newer Republicans who came in with Wendell Willkie and who desire a liberal Republican Party that co-exists with a liberal Democratic

3. There are the Eisenhower Republicans, men and women who are unaccustomed to politics but who admire and even adore President Eisenhower.

Thus there is no genuine Republican image. It was possible in the days of Mark Hanna to describe a Republican with a degree of accuracy. That is altogether impossible today. It is for this reason that a degree of paralysis has been noted in the Eisenhower Administration which, having no majority in Congress, sought to function by executive action or by agreement with Lyndon Johnson. It was a tough position for a party and it would be a great advantage to the American people if the next President and the next Congress were of the same party.

President Eisenhower was not a dyed-in-the-wool Republican. He had been in the army most of his adult life and a professional army officer has no party.

When Eisenhower decided to become a Republican. he had to learn the peculiarities of our political system which, of course, is nothing like the politics in the army. In civilian life, it is necessary for a man to be friendly with his opponent, as undoubtedly Kennedy and Nixon are and will be after the campaign. In the army, a senior officer who dislikes or distrusts a junior can have him moved out of his way. It was probably for that reason that President Eisenhower mistreated ex-President Truman.

It will not be possible for Vice President Nixon to accept full and unquestioning responsibility for the Eisenhower Administration. Nevertheless, the Democrats will make that their principal issue. For instance, they have already raised some questions as to the competence of the Eisenhower Administration with regard to the economy of the nation. They have indicated that they intend to make such questions major in the

As John Kennedy discusses the farm problem. he sounds like a Taft Republican who knows how to use an adding machine; can Richard Nixon deal with this problem less conservatively? He could ask Kennedy as to who started this enormous stockpile of rotting farm products. The answer, of course, would have to be that this all goes way back to the days of Henry Wallace, but that answer is no good. It will not do in 1960 when Franklin D. Roosevelt is a mythological figure and when Henry Wallace and Rexford Guy Tugwell are forgotten.

It will not do because a new generation exists who know Herbert Hoover as a kindly, elderly gentleman who writes books, and the Depression as something which happened before World War II. The emotional responses of each generation are its own and when one realizes how remote the 1930's are, the Republican Party will have to face the realities of today.

Peace and prosperity do not mean the same to a youngster in his 30's as they do to an oldster in his 60's. I can recall when this nation went to war gaily, singing "Over There" and calling sauerkraut, Liberty Cabbage. That was a gay, optimistic, sure America that had no doubts about anything. That America does not exist among the younger generations of our people. And it is to many younger generations that Richard Nixon will have to appeal.

If one studies carefully the Democratic platform and John Kennedy's acceptance speech, they are not closely related. The platform was designed to please everybody; the acceptance speech asserted authority.

WASHINGTON - A South Dakota newspaper recently headlined a story "Mundt Gets Fulbright." On the basis of the headline alone, it looked like a shocker- that Senator Karl E. Mundt (R), South Dakota, had finally gotten his foe in the upper chamber, Senator J. William Fulbright, Arkansas Democrat.

Such was not the case. It was just that a youngster named Mundt—no relation to the senator -had received a Fulbright scholarship to study abroad. However, the headline has Solaris is equipped with a variety of "claws" for holding objects. It can pick up a spent terpedo, a missile casing or underwater pipes. It can also plant explosives and even fire a connecting stud into an unwieldy object so a cable can be attached.

An electro - magnet can be attached for gathering scrap metal and there is a grapple for net-tending. There are brilliant lamps that can be used to chart the ocean floor or help inspect underwater operations.

Work on the device has cost the government many thousands of dollars, but it is expected to pay for itself many times over.

The feeling of closeness to the East will have its impact on business and finance to an increasing extent in the next few years. The airplane, especially the jet has brought the East, the Middle West and the West within a few hours of each othe. Even some railroad executives told me they fly east regularly to attend board meetings. They foresee a dark fraure for rail passenger business, but, of course, they are doing well with freight

Homers Decide Opener; Dark's Hit Wins 2nd

CHICAGO (AP) - Bob Buhl's four-hit pitching and Al Dark's ninth-inning pinch single gave Milwaukee a 1-0 victory Sunday after the Braves had defeated the Chicago Cubs 7-5 on the home runs by Joe Adcock and Johnny Logan in the first game of the doubleheader.

The double triumph sent the high-flying Braves into first place in the National League, two percentage points ahead of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who fell at San Francisco, 6-3. Milwaukee has now won nine of its last eleven games and is in sole possession of the league lead for the first time this season.

Buhl and Cub rookie Jim Brewer, brought up from Houston last week, were engaged in a tight pitching duel until Mel Roach doubled with one out in the ninth. Johnny Logan was given an intentional pass and with Dark at bat. Al Spangler, running for Roach, stole third. Dark then laced a sharp single to left for the game's only run.

The opener was more of a freewheeling affair, although southpaw Warren Spahn managed to go the distance on a yield of nine The Braves scored four times in the third and three in the fifth to offset several Chicago threats.

Milwaukee made the most of a third inning opportunity in the first game when Jerry Kindall booted Hank Aaron's double play grounder with one on and one out. Adcock hammered out a double sending both runners home and then scored himself when Logan slammed his second homer.

AKRON, Ohio (AP) - Jay Hebert, a swarthy son of the Louisiana bayous, scored birdies on two of the last four holes Sunday and beat Australian-born Jim Ferrier by a stroke to win the 42nd Professional Golfers' Assn. Championship with a 72-hole total of 281. Jay's aggressive play on the closing holes enabled him to take the title his younger brother. # Sesquitennial Of Frostburg Being Planned

Celebration Is Set During 1962

FROSTBURG - A meeting of the Mayor and Council, along with community residents, will be held August 22 to formulate plans for Frostburg's sesquitennial observance in 1962.

City officials have decided to begin preliminary work by asking all organizations to have at least one representative at the meeting to suggest committees and various vents during the 150th birthday celebration.

Frostburg celebrated its 100th anniversary in 1912, and many of the older citizens still recount events that took place then. At that time the city was at the peak of its development. Two railroads did a thriving business hauling coal and other products from the area. A street-car line connected Frostburg with Cumberland and the Georges Creek

Sesquitennial Of Frostburg Being Planned

Celebration Is Set During 1962

FROSTBURG - A meeting of the Mayor and Council, along with community residents, will be held August 22 to formulate plans for Frostburg's sesquitennial observance in 1962.

City officials have decided to begin preliminary work by asking all organizations to have at least one representative at the meeting to suggest committees and various vents during the 150th birthday celebration.

Frostburg celebrated its 100th anniversary in 1912, and many of the older citizens still recount events that took place then. At that time the city was at the peak of its development. # Spring Oats Are Showing Red Leaves

Many plantings of spring oats n Allegany County are showing red leaves, a blasting of lower heads and stunting, Joseph M Steger, county farm agent, said.

These symptoms are caused by yellow dwarf, a virous di sease of barley, wheat, oats and grasses, according to Mr. Steger, who said they are very prominent in this county.

Yellow dwarf was first recognized in Maryland in oats in 1956 and 1957. To date, symptoms on the winter grains have been less severe. The virus is transmitted by various aphids. Build-up and disease severity depend upon a large number of aphids surviving the winter and favorable weather for aphid feeding during the spring. The dry, warm weather in April may have been an important factor influencing the development of yellow dwarf in Maryland.

Oats that were planted late had more disease than earlyplanted fields because the aphids were present to infect the small

In spite of the severe epidemic

this year, a cold winter would tend to reduce the possibility of heavy losses again next year. The virus is not seed borne; sprays or seed treatment are not effective control measures. The 140 Clinton varieties of oats are very

Spring Oats Are Showing Red Leaves

Many plantings of spring oats in Allegany County are showing red leaves, a blasting of lower heads and stunting, Joseph M. Steger, county farm agent, said. These symptoms are caused by yellow dwarf, a virous di who said they are very prominent in this county. Yellow dwarf was first recog nized in Maryland in oats in 1956 and 1957. To date, symptoms on the winter grains have been less severe. The virus is transmitted by various aphids. Build-up and disease severity depend upon a large number of aphids surviving the winter and favorable weather for aphid feeding during the spring. Dale Richard Riley, 26, of RD 1. Oldtown, was reported in "satisfactory" condition at Memorial Hospital where he was admitted Saturday night with injuries sustained in an accident on Lower Town Creek Road

Treated at the hospital was Wakeman Taylor Shryock, 25, of Hagerstown, who was identified as the driver of the car.

State Police said the accident occurred about a mile off State Route 51. (Oldtown Road) when Shryock tried to light a cigaret while operating his car. Apparently blinded by the light of the match, he lost control of the car which ran off the left side of the road and hit a tree.
